What's Market

Welcome to the Practical Law Canada tutorial on using our What's Market offering. The purpose of this tutorial is to illustrate how you can use What's Market to explore market practice on a particular deal point, find a document relevant to your latest transaction, and familiarize yourself with market trends.

When you access the Practical Law Canada site, you can see a list of all of our practice areas and resources. Practical Law Canada provides a wide range of resources, all of which can be accessed from this page.

To access the What's Market landing page, let's start by selecting What's Market under the Resources tab on the Practice Law home page or under Resources in the Browse Menu. The What's Market home page is also accessible by selecting the What's Market link which appears under the main navigation pane in the section entitled Featured.

The What's Market home page has two tabs. The Deal Summaries tab contains our continuously updated database of publicly filed deals related to three Practice Areas. Our Market Practice Analysis tab contains our market trend analysis resources related to these Practice Areas.

The Deal Summaries tab provides summaries of deals in three Practice Areas:

- x Capital Markets & Securities Practice Area: Initial Public Offerings

- x Corporate and M&A Practice Area: Public Merger Agreements and Private Acquisition Agreements.
